order. Toward the close of the war one of our leading Masons called on Lincoln for some favor. He said, when the visitor took his leave: 'I have heard so much of the good deeds of Masoury during the war, that if I were not so old I would still knock at the door of the lodge."

I could not forbear telling the doctor a story which I had heard of Mr. Lincoln. It was just after he was nominated in 1860, that a prominent Mason called on him at Springfield and said: "Of course you expect all the Masons to vote against you, Mr. Lincoln."

"No, why?" "Because all the other presidential candidates are Masons."

"Bless me!" exclaimed Old Abe, "is that so?"

"Certainly," said the visitor; Bell has taken all the degrees, and s a member of the Grand Lodge of Tennessee. Breckinridge is an officer of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky. And Douglas; why, he is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Illinois—right here under your

He has collected directions of the various cities of the country, and is said to know all the streets and a great number of the residences of New York city. Some time ago a foreign letter came directed to "Patrick Mahoney, First house in America." The letter came from Ireland, and after the usual inquiries the clerk learned the time that the vessel bearing the letter arrived. As an experiment, he placed it in the hands of a carrier, who was instructed to deliver it at the end of pier. The house was a sailors' boarding-house, and, strange as it may seem, Patrick Mahoney was found. When the letter was opened the only contents were found to be a draft for $400.

THE INTELLIGENT JURYMAN.

The excellence of the jury system, as a repository of justice and a palladium of liberty, is seldom more strikingly exemplified than it was a day or two ago, in a case of some interest that was brought before the circuit court in this city. In this instance ten of the jurymen were constrained to yield their convictions to the opposition of the other two, and thus to sanction a vertice contrary to their conscience and belief, and technically in violation of their oaths. It is true, that oftentimes one intelligent juryman will serve the cause of justice by peremptorily asserting his opinions, and by obstinately holding out against the ignorance and the prejudices of his cleven associates; but prewho has mortgaged her property in sumably, when the jury box is occupied by intelligent men, at all events, the opinion of ten jurymen ought to out weigh and to set aside the views of the dissenting two. In the case referred to, ten of the jurymen were at once agreed in finding a verdict for the plainwhile a hole in a half dottar is quoted tiff in the full amount of damages allowed by law; one was for a somewhat ighter verdiet, and one intelligent judge of law and of fact, forsooth, was for a verdict in damages against the prosecuting witness. And yet how often are even the issues of life and death given into the hands of just such preposterous donkeys as that, when seated in the jury box. We suppose that the Anglo-Saxon race will cover relinquish its candidate for Secator Aldrich's seat in | right to a trial by jury, and probably it ought not to surrender it; but the race the House of Representatives, declares ought by this time to be intelligent himself in favor of the passage of the enough to find some means of so modifying the jury system that it shall be made to operate in conformity with reason and common sense, as well as in formances yesterday, inturrupting the the interest of law and of justice. WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 .- Long before the hour of opening the criminal court, assembled in the eastern corridors, and thought about the Grand Jury, and did several hundred ladies and gentlemen patiently awaited admission to the court

At 9 o'clock the prison van drove up and Guiteau, clutching a large bundle of papers in his hand, shuffled hurriedly into the building.

Upon the opening of court, Mr. Sco ville requested the court to take some measures to prevent the prisoner from giving the public his unauthorized communications, and also to prevent the annoying interruptions of the prisoner in the court room. This brought on a scene, during which Guiteau demanded that Scavi le should go out of the case; that he was no criminal lawyer, and had no ense; that he talked one thing to Columbus, O., Nov. 18 .- A fire broke out this morning in the Imbecile Asylum, situated three miles west of this city, which entire y destroyed the main building and part of one dermitory. The loss to the State will be nearly $150,-000. No lives were lost, although the institution contained 614 pupils and nearly 150 employes. All the effects of the officers, teachers and other employes were consumed. A fireman of the city department fell through a floor and bruised his limbs. The London (O.) fire department was telegraphed for and arrived at 12:30, but the fire was under control. Dr. Beren, the Superintendent of the asylum, says he can take care of the pupils for a short time.

Grand Discoveries.

The discovery of a great remedy is frequently a matter of accident. This, how instant about his guita percha hued ever, is not the case with TARANINE, now widely anown and approved as an almost William F. Barker was called, but infallible remedy for Liver Complaint and diseases of the Kidneys and Bowels The best physicians have for many years used various preparations of dandelion root in these diseases but with only inroot in these diseases but with only indifferent success. After a long series of experiments, a combination, with the active principle of the Dandelion as a basis,

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

DECATUR, LLI..., Nov., 18, 1981 At a meeting of the board of directors of the lecatur Public Library, the following resolutions in regard to the death, of their libraria ere unanimously adopted;

were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, In view of the loss we have sustained in the suddon removal, by death, from our midst and from his field of peculiar userialness, our much esteemed friend and associate, Richard L. Evans, who has, by his courtesy of manner, the high appreciation in which he always held the important position to which he was called by this board, and the descriminating judgment which he manifested in the performance of all his duties and responsibilities, so endeared himself to us, not conly ask board of directors, but individually, that we have been led to regard him in very high esteem as a christian gentleman, and to hold his opinion of very great weight in all our deuberations. Therefore Resolved, That in the death of Richard L. Evans, the board of directors of the Beratt-Public Library has lost a faltiful, carnest and obliging officer, and the parons of the library, very especially the younger portion thereof, who have been so accustomed to appeal to his experience and ludgment as to what they should read, a kind, gental, truthful trivod and advisor.

Resolved, That we tender to his hereaved time. The company was urged to put up the bridge weeks ago, but they put off the work, and now they will have to do advisor.

Resolved, That we tender to his hereaved wife and family our heartfelt sympathy and condolence, in this their sad and deep uffic-tion.

Resolved, That as a mark of the respect and exteen in which we held the deceased, we attend his funeral in a body, that the intrariants desk in the hisrary be suitably draped in anounting for a period of thirty days, and that these resolutions be entered in full upon our records.

hese resolutions be entered records.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the family of the deceased, and to each of the city papers.

Bloodhounds in the Russian Army The Russians have strengthened

The results distinct at their garden falls of the control of the c their army by the rovel addition to each company of a pack of powerful and carefully trained dogs. These watchful animals are sent out with the sentinels on picked duty, where their sharp ears and still keener scent will prove an impregnable barrier to the lurking places of the enemy. The dogs used are a species of bloodhound from the Ural mountains The dog is selected because of its habitual silence. It growls, but never barks-a matter of first importance to the soldiers nearly to an enemy's camp The Ural hound is gifted with an exceedingly fine sense of smell, keen ears, and 14 ever alert. Most comforting of all to the lenely picket, the dog is said to be esterilly courageous in defending his master It is curious that with the example of the | King Charles spaniels before us, no one thought before of using these intelligent animals as sentincls. The value of the plan is self evident. The Mus covites have gone further, and are troining swift hounds, as well as these same Ural doge, to act as dispatch bearers, much as the carrier pigeons were employed in 1871. They certainly would low margins, try to get the best made and be hard messengers to catch when sent most durable goods that we can find, try stealing through the woods at night.
